

A Helping Hand
is offered to all.
5 Cents a Line
SITUATION
Through WORLD "Wants".
NO EXTRA CHARGE ON SUNDAY.

PRICE ONE CENT.

EXTRA.

2 O'CLOCK.
OUTLAWS TO GO.

District-Attorney Nicoll Will Put Them Down.

Kelly's Triplicate Vice Den in Full Blast Again.

Carey Welch Takes the Cork Out of "The Hole in the Wall."

Frank Stevenson's "Slide" Temporarily Does Away with Music.

All the Dive-Keepers Do a Flourishing Sunday Trade.

THE EVENING WORLD'S crusade against New York's outlaws is producing results.

District-Attorney Nicoll announced today that he will make an investigation and lay the evidence before the Grand Jury.

He says that there seems to be no doubt that the law is being openly violated and the authority defied, and he proposes to put a stop to such proceedings at once.

KELLY'S IN FULL BLAST.

New York's Outlaws Boldly Defy Decency and Authority.

Mr. "Honest" John Kelly, having satisfied his conscience by closing down his triplicate haunt of vice on Friday, opened up again on Saturday night. A little extra surveillance was kept over those who entered the gambling hall, but the assignment department was freed of all who had money to burn.

Denise men and shapers in the barroom was unbroken. Last night only two-thirds of the establishment was under steam. The tiger's hair upstairs was barred. Perhaps because it was Sunday and Mr. Kelly desired to partially observe the day, or may be it was owing to the fact that the game had been run into the early hours of morning, stranding most of the habitués. But be that as it may, the law was observed in this respect and Mr. Kelly felt entitled to credit.

Mr. McCormick's dive was also open last night, as were those of Frank Stevenson, Carey Welch, Jim Sullivan and the other outlaws.

The orgies in all of these places continued long after midnight. The blinds were drawn, but passers-by could not help hearing the noises from within. They could see people going in and out, many drunk.

No effort was made to disguise the fact that liquor was being sold, and that the flagrant violation of the excise regulations. The drinkers were served with whiskey, wine and beer, and the waiters received the orders to the barkeepers in tones almost loud enough to be heard on the street.

The Sunday law has no terrors for these worthies. Their eyes were open all day yesterday and last night, until after midnight. The same class of men and women sat at the tables, singing the same indecent songs as on week nights.

Mr. Carey Welch personally welcomed all his guests on Sunday night. He sat at the tables and drank with them at their expense. He looks the typical divekeeper. One is impressed by the lower part of his face, which has that squariness considered a mark of beauty in the build. His many diamonds also notify the casual observer of their presence.

He was deliciously demure. A woman who had purchased him a glass of beer ventured to ask whether he was going to close up.

"Close up, noddin'," he retorted. "I've got a license, and I'm going to run this place no matter what the newspapers or anybody else says. I run a respectable place and they can't touch me. My house is orderly and I run it strictly according to the law."

Mr. Welch, in making this remark, overlooked the fact that he gives concerts and runs a dance hall, for which he has no license; that the dance hall is also an assignation room.

Mr. Welch's law is a low-rolling den, about 20 feet wide and 30 feet long. The chairs and tables are ranged along the walls. The center of the floor, which is kept carefully waxed, is reserved for the dancers. A piano and a victrol furnish the music.

The concerts at "The Hole in the Wall" are "go-as-you-please" affairs. The programme is arranged to suit the guests. When they are tired of dancing they can demand a song. They rap on the tables with their glasses and shout, "Song." Then the waiters, in white jacket and apron, will take up his position at the end of the room and "do a turn."

"There, you fellows, cheer it now and shut your traps for a minute," he shouts, by way of establishing order. His command is obeyed instantly, and the only interruptions are the suggestive mention in the raucous song of the raucous remarks of a man inebriate.

The women who frequent the "Hole in the Wall" are patently low. Indeed they are such that Billy Melody, who was not apt to judge people from a moral standpoint, would not allow them to enter his house.

But Carey Welch encourages their presence in his place. They allure their guests to his assignation room before it is placed.

ONLY THE "ALL RIGHTS" ADMITTED.

Only those who were known to be "all

POINTERS ON THE RACES.

A Fair Card and Dry Going at the Hilltop Track.

Manhasset and Gambler to Meet in the Three-Year-Olds' Event.

Racing will be continued at Guttenberg today, with a very fair card of six races. The track will no doubt be in good condition, for the cold weather quickly disposes of moisture and gives the track a good, hard foundation.

Manhasset and Gambler will meet in the race for three-year-olds at six furlongs, and as there are only two pounds difference in the weight between them the question of superiority will no doubt be settled conclusively.

The little race should furnish a good contest and the best of the sprinters are entered in the five and a half furlong dash.

The entries for the various events are as follows:

First Race.—Purse $400, selling allowances, for horses three years old and under.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Second Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Third Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Fourth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Fifth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Sixth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Seventh Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Eighth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Ninth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Tenth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Eleventh Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Twelfth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Thirteenth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Fourteenth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Fifteenth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Sixteenth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Seventeenth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Eighteenth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Nineteenth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Twentieth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Twenty-first Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Twenty-second Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Twenty-third Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Twenty-fourth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Twenty-fifth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Twenty-sixth Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

Twenty-seventh Race.—Purse $400, for three-year-olds, six furlongs.
Manhasset, 115 lbs.
Gambler, 115 lbs.

FOREIGN NEWS OF THE DAY.

Influenza's Spread and Increased Virulence in England.

King of Belgium Well Again—Davitt and "The Times."

London, Jan. 4.—The influenza is prevalent throughout Great Britain, and the number of cases daily grows larger. A marked feature of the present visitation of the disease is the large number of deaths resulting either directly from it or from the complications attending it. In London alone during the past week more than 1,000 deaths have been caused by the disease.

At Aylesbury, capital of the county of Bucks, thirty-eight miles from London, nearly all the inmates of the workhouse are prostrated with influenza.

At Reading, the capital of Berkshire, whole families have been attacked by the disease, and many deaths have occurred. The people in many of the towns of Berkshire are affected.

In East Kent and Canterbury there are not enough doctors to cope with the epidemic. The epidemic is spreading in Guernsey, the second largest of the Channel Islands.

In Dorsetshire the work of the day farms has been much impeded by the general prevalence of the disease.

Michael Davitt on the "Times's" Possible Gospel of Dynamite.

London, Jan. 4.—The explosion at Dublin Castle has brought out many theories as to the cause of the affair. The Conservative organs as a rule have placed the responsibility upon the shoulders of the leaders of the "physical force" party, and this has had the effect of drawing from Mr. Michael Davitt a letter in which he protests that it is cowardly for the "Times" to insinuate that the explosion might be traced to his friend Lord.

Mr. Davitt says it is more probable, as the "Times" friend Pigott is dead, that that paper has another agent to preach the gospel of dynamite as it did the gospel of forgery.

Mr. Davitt also suggests that the explosion was due to one of the "physical force" men, who caused it with the object of influencing the coming election in Rosendale to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons caused by the elevation of Lord Hartington, now Duke of Devonshire, to the House of Lords.

The King of the Belgians Said to Have Quite Recovered.

Brussels, Jan. 4.—Alarming reports concerning the health of King Leopold are without foundation. In fact, it is officially announced today that his Majesty appeared in public yesterday, and that he has quite recovered from his recent attack of influenza.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS BATH.

Banker Robert W. Donnell Carried Off Suddenly.

Robert W. Donnell, the venerable senior member of the banking house of Donnell, Lawson & Simpson, of 100 Broadway, died suddenly at 5 o'clock this morning in the bathroom at his luxurious mansion, 15 East Sixty-seventh street.

Donnell was suddenly awakened by the sound of something falling. The place at his side where his husband had lain was vacant. Hastily arising, he hurried to the bathroom adjoining, arriving simultaneously with Jane, the cook, who heard the noise as she was descending to the kitchen.

They found Mr. Donnell lying on his face on the bathroom floor in his night robe. Mrs. Donnell, fainting, and the cook's screams brought the other servants. Dr. H. T. Hanks, of 760 Madison avenue, was hastily summoned, and a messenger was sent for the family physician, Dr. Sinclair Smith, of 8 East 12th street.

The aged banker was dead when Dr. Hanks arrived, and the physician said that death had been instantaneous. The cause of death, without medical attendance was reported to the police, and the coroner was notified.

Mr. Donnell was seventy years old. He retired from active participation in the affairs of his bank five years ago, and has been in feeble health for months. Dr. Sinclair Smith says that his trouble was an affection of the heart and that fatty degeneration caused his death.

Robert W. Donnell was born at Greensboro, N.C., of a family that participated in the American Revolution.

He emigrated to Missouri when a young man and settled at St. Joseph in what was then known as "the plate purchase." He was a successful merchant and banker at St. Joseph, and later moved to Kansas City, where he died in 1883.

In 1883 they moved to Montana, where, at Helena, Mr. Donnell established the mercantile and banking house of Tut & Donnell, and later, with the present United States Senator Clarke, he organized banking houses at Helena and Butte under the firm style of Donnell, Clarke & Larabee.

In 1870 Mr. Donnell came to New York, and engaged with Leonard A. Lawson and George Simpson the Broadway banking house, since his retirement he has been in active business. Mr. Donnell has spent much time in Italy and in the South in quest of health.

WANTED IN PHILADELPHIA.

Theodore Craft, of Harlem, Robbed a House There New Year's Day.

Detective Danahy, of Philadelphia, in the Tombs Police Court this morning asked Justice McMahon to hold Theodore Craft, of Harlem, for a requisition from the Governor of Pennsylvania.

Craft was wanted in Philadelphia for a burglary committed there on New Year's Day. Detectives Hoag and Wade, of Inspector Byrnes's staff, arrested Craft in Harlem last evening. Justice McMahon committed the prisoner.

Craft burglarized the house of W. H. Smith, in the Elizabeth street, carrying off about $500 worth of silverware and some cash. His parents are respectable people living in St. Nicholas avenue.

Wire News in Brief.

Three men hold up a Montana stage coach in Montana county and get a haul of several thousands in jewelry and money.

Gen. George A. Patterson, prominent Ohio Fellow, a Brigadier-General of the Patriarch Militia, is dead at Detroit, Ill.

Andrew Carnegie donates $300,000 for a public library at Fairview, Pa.

TO DIE AT LAST.

Mellvaine's Electrocuting Fixed for the Week of Feb. 8.

Nearly Three Years Now Since He Butchered Grocer Luca.

Trezza, the Italian Murderer, to Die the Same Day in Sing Sing.

Charles Mellvaine, the convicted murderer of grocer Christian W. Luca in Brooklyn, and Nicola Trezza, convicted of murdering Alexander Salvano, also in Brooklyn, were this forenoon sentenced by Justice Bartlett, of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, to die in the electric chair during the week beginning Monday, Feb. 8.

There was an immense crowd in the Court House ten minutes after Mellvaine and Trezza arrived there.

When the two murderers were taken up to the Court of Oyer and Terminer room, the crowd followed them, and the Courtroom is a very large one, but it was packed full within five minutes.

It was impossible for the doorkeeper to resist the tide of jostling humanity, and even after the room was packed so full it would hold no more the crowd outside sought to get near the door.

It was 11 o'clock when District-Attorney Hendrickson arose, and addressing Justice Bartlett, offered affidavits reciting that Charles Mellvaine had been twice convicted of the murder of Christian W. Luca, that his case had been carried to the Court of Appeals and to the United States Supreme Court, and that he was now ready to die.

Justice Bartlett then turned to Trezza and asked: "Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

ECLIPSE OF A MONEYSOON.

Trille's Marriage and Separation Announced at the Same Time.

The Wife Claims He Has Been Posting as an Unmarried Man.

TRILLE, GRIMM.—On May 6, 1901, by the Rev. J. J. Grimm, Charles A. Trille and Miss Little (Grimm).

Charles Trille, of this city, and Miss Little (Grimm), of this city, were this forenoon married by the Rev. J. J. Grimm, of this city, the clergyman who performed the marriage ceremony, and she lives with her father at 1812 Lexington avenue. She and her father say that the young couple lived in the Grimm household until September last, when Trille declared that he would live with his wife no longer.

Mrs. Trille gave up a separation. Formal papers were drawn up and both parties signed them on Oct. 15 last. By then Trille understood himself to pay his wife $10 weekly, and he is freed from responsibility for any debts she may incur.

Mrs. Trille says further: "I found some time ago that Mr. Trille was calling on unmarried girls and representing himself as a single man. I was even told that he was engaged to a young woman in Brooklyn. My family is an estimable one, and I called upon them to do so at once. When I told them about Mr. Trille's marriage to me they were astounded and grateful."

Mr. Trille was found by a representative of the Evening World at 1812 Lexington avenue, a well-dressed, dark man, with a mustache, and his hair is of a dark brown color. He flushed indignantly and declined to discuss the affair further, but he said that he was not responsible for the notice of his marriage to Rev. Grimm's daughter and that of their separation.

When told of Mrs. Trille's accusation he said: "It is all false. I did the honorable thing by the girl, and I have no intention of verifying the matter, all right. I shall say nothing."

But she is quoted as saying that you have been calling on young women, representing yourself to be unmarried and free, and that you have engaged yourself to marry a Brooklyn girl of good family?"

"My duty is to say, and I do say, you. If there is any valid reason to allege why I should not carry out the order of this Court for your execution?"

"No," replied Mellvaine, almost inaudibly.

"Then," replied the judge, "under those circumstances, and under Section 4 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, I command the Agent and Warden of Sing Sing Prison to execute you during the week beginning Feb. 8, 1902."

Mellvaine remained mute and showed no emotion.

He was hustled away by the court officials and Trezza was brought to the bar.

Then, addressing the boy-faced prisoner, the justice said:

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

NO STATE SENATE BLOCK.

Enough Members Will Be Present for the Organization.

No Falsifying Ideas About Independent Senator Edwards.

The question of whether sixteen is a sufficient number of members to organize the State Senate will not be raised. When Clerk John S. Kenyon calls that body together tomorrow at Albany there will be at least seven members holding certificates from the State Board of Canvassers present to take the oath.

Senator James T. Edwards, the clergyman who performed the marriage ceremony, and she lives with her father at 1812 Lexington avenue. She and her father say that the young couple lived in the Grimm household until September last, when Trille declared that he would live with his wife no longer.

Mrs. Trille gave up a separation. Formal papers were drawn up and both parties signed them on Oct. 15 last. By then Trille understood himself to pay his wife $10 weekly, and he is freed from responsibility for any debts she may incur.

Mrs. Trille says further: "I found some time ago that Mr. Trille was calling on unmarried girls and representing himself as a single man. I was even told that he was engaged to a young woman in Brooklyn. My family is an estimable one, and I called upon them to do so at once. When I told them about Mr. Trille's marriage to me they were astounded and grateful."

Mr. Trille was found by a representative of the Evening World at 1812 Lexington avenue, a well-dressed, dark man, with a mustache, and his hair is of a dark brown color. He flushed indignantly and declined to discuss the affair further, but he said that he was not responsible for the notice of his marriage to Rev. Grimm's daughter and that of their separation.

When told of Mrs. Trille's accusation he said: "It is all false. I did the honorable thing by the girl, and I have no intention of verifying the matter, all right. I shall say nothing."

But she is quoted as saying that you have been calling on young women, representing yourself to be unmarried and free, and that you have engaged yourself to marry a Brooklyn girl of good family?"

"My duty is to say, and I do say, you. If there is any valid reason to allege why I should not carry out the order of this Court for your execution?"

"No," replied Mellvaine, almost inaudibly.

"Then," replied the judge, "under those circumstances, and under Section 4 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, I command the Agent and Warden of Sing Sing Prison to execute you during the week beginning Feb. 8, 1902."

Mellvaine remained mute and showed no emotion.

He was hustled away by the court officials and Trezza was brought to the bar.

Then, addressing the boy-faced prisoner, the justice said:

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you have anything to say?"

"No, sir," replied Mellvaine.

"You have heard the statement of the District-Attorney and the steps taken in your case. Do you